The ZON is the main source of support for the Verizon Developer Community. The ZON allows developers to register as an alliance, submit application concepts, and learn about the development process.

- Please make sure you are registered on this site.
- Always update contact information on this site.
- Developer bulletins are distributed through this site
 - These bulletins contain extremely useful information for all developers developing for VZW.

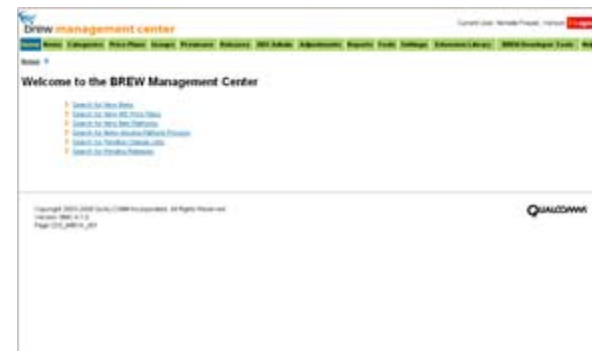

Submitting to NSTL

- New
 - When you have a brand new title, please submit as “New”
 - When you have a title for a new handset with different files then previously submitted
- Add Platform
 - When you have a new handset that will utilize the same files as previously submitted, please submit as “add platform”
- Upgrade
 - When you have an existing title and you are resubmitting a handset you previously submitted, please submit as “upgrade”
- Be sure to set Pricing and Export compliance on applications.
- Please only submit each handset once per title, unless there is an upgrade situation.

Versioning

- Please use a standard the 1.0, 2.0, 3.0 formatting on your version of the application.
- If there are additional numerical identifier needed please start the third placement. (1.0.50)
- Add any additional information at the end of the version. (1.0.50 MED, 1.0.50 8700)

Part Numbers

- All unique applications must be under the same Part Number. Each developer needs to submit the new builds as additional versions under an existing Part Number.
- If you have an existing title that has multiple part numbers, please align all versions of 1 title to 1 part number. Once this is complete, please notify your VZW contact.
- Make sure price plans are only submitted with the initial submission of a title, or when you are changing the price of the application.
- Please do not include special characters. Letters and numbers only.

Required Language

Please add this language to the end of the description on all applications.

- Without an unlimited data plan, you will (depending on your plan) incur airtime charges at applicable overage rates if you exceed your minutes bundle or megabyte ("MB") charges of $1.99/MB for downloading the application, and if sending/receiving data during use.

Timelines

Timing is essential to managing volume of applications that VZW receives on a daily basis. The below timelines were established to prevent catalog issues visible to the consumer and allow proper timing for application testing.

- Production catalog is released every Tuesday at approximately 6 pm EST
- Applications for production catalog are tested by the prior Thursday
- Changes to catalog order are determined by the prior Friday at 9am EST
- Applications should be submitted 37 days before expected launch

Top reasons applications fail testing

- Sound plays in application when phone sounds are set to off.
- Words or images are truncated within the application or do not fill the screen.
- Clear key does not function correctly.
- Data calls fail to self terminate in less than 60 seconds.
- Removing a wallpaper application removes images not belonging to the application in My Pix.
- File is corrupted when a power loss occurs during a data download.
- Other carriers are specifically mentioned in the application.
- Text is difficult to read due to text and background color similarities.
- Timer continues to run during a suspend event.
- Instructions are incorrect.

Handsets

- 116 Brew Models commercially available
 - All of which have applications available for download
- 73 Brew Models actively testing applications
 - We have a very limited supply of handsets available to us.
 - We have to maintain the correct software on all devices.

Problematic Handsets/PIDs

- LG 8100
 - When applications are submitted for the LG 8100, it is required that they are submitted on both the LG 8100 PID 1065 and the LG 8100 PID 1104 separately. These handsets are not "Grandfathered" requiring the applications to be tested and published separately.
- Motorola V3C, V3M, L7C, K1M
